HOUSING IN CENTRAL VIRGINIA

It is our observation that there is more new building construction going on in Central Virginia than in many other portions of the nation. One reason may be that in this area, there was greater retardation of housing during the war years, when in some places nearing approached or reached demand, it is hardly true that we have reached that stage, and there is no evidence that we are over-building.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

(Stuart Chase, in National Education Assn. Journal)

. . . There will be no real (economic or social) equilibrium until:

(1) The atomic bomb is neutralized.

(2) Relations between the U. S. and Russia are straightened out.

(3) Europe finds some pattern to keep body and soul together.

(4) The Far East and Near East do likewise.

(5) Relations between the U. S. and Britain are clarified.

(6) Labor, management, and government find a working arrangement for keeping strikes at a minimum.

(7) People get houses to live in.

(8) Methods of checking depression and insuring full employment are put into practice.

(9) The net national income is kept consistently at high levels to service the national debt.

(10) The machinery of the federal government is drastically remodeled to handle the problems of the atomic age.

(11) Fifteen million veterans and the rest of us find economic security.

TOWARD THE BARRIER

(New York Herald-Tribune)

Slowly the mark inches forward, slowly the twin skills of the engineer and the pilot drive planes to fantastic new speeds. The title now comes back to the United States, for Colonel Alfred Boyd has piloted a pet-propelled Shooting Star at an average speed of 623.8 miles an hour. On goes the fight for speed, and grudgingly the machines yield a few miles more each year. The price of a new record is travail and peril, for a barrier is slowly being approached. At the speed of sound, in the neighborhood of 750 miles an hour at sea level, and even sooner with increasing altitude, the laws of nature have set a wall through which a plane has to smash and survive. Even before the speed of sound is reached, minatory strains and stresses torment the plane and warn the pilot that he pushes on at his risk. Wreckage notes the occasions when men ignored the warning.

Some day soon the wall will be breached. There is nothing permanent about it. Missiles move freely through the speed of sound, and far beyond it; instruments from V-2 rockets show no cataclysmic changes. And when the breach is made it will reveal, as so many walls have failed to reveal, a new vista, almost unlimited and ripe for the exploring. That day, perhaps, new records will begin to swallow fifty and a hundred miles at a gulp. The great struggle is at hand; it will be waged between 650 and 900 miles an hour. When it is won, it may become child's play to put a five-hour girdle around the earth.

NEW THINGS IN AGRICULTURE

(Pittsylvania Tribune)

In the search for new and better things with which to win the war, there were found also many new things in almost every industry which will prove useful improvements in our homes and on our farms.

New textiles and water proofing treatment of textiles; new plastics and synthetic products are coming on the market in increasing quantities, New drugs, new surgery methods are revolutionizing the practice of medicine.

The one thing, however, which it seems is going to do most to increase farm production is not a war product. It is the development of hybrids.

It is claimed by the experts that the planting of hybrid corn has increased the value of the corn crop by one fourth in quantity and by about two million dollars in value at the average price and by about twice that amount at the present price for corn.

These experts add that this is only the beginning of hybridization.

Successful experiments have been made with "hybrid vigor" which increased the quality and quantity of production of onions, tomatoes, beets, pumpkins and other vegetables, the quantities being increased in some instances as much as three-fourths.

Experiments are being made along the same line with farm animals. It will pay farmers to be posted on these developments. They can only keep up by being careful to get the largest production of the best quality at the lowest price.

SOCIAL SECURITY FREEZE

Winchester Star

By unanimous vote the House of Representatives decided to freeze social security taxes at their present rate for two years. Similar action by the Senate is forecast. This means a continuation of the assessment of one per cent on wages paid to employees who come under provisions of the social security law.

The original social security act was approved in 1935 and amended in 1939 to provide for a progressive increase in what employers and wage earners should pay, with a permanent take of three per cent from both employer and employee, or a total of six per cent reached in 1949.

But the one per cent contributions provided more money than was needed to meet social security claims and Congress kept the rate at one per cent despite efforts of the government to boost it, and now another definite step has been taken to hold the line.

Business or Dress-Up

This two-piece suit of black silk faille can be used for either business or dress wear. The jacket has a long square neck inset with white eyelet to match the cuffs on the three-quarter length sleeves. The skirt is plain and form-fitting with a slight flare in front.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Seeing God in Our Present World

LESSON TEXT FOR JULY 13—Job 38:1-7, 16-18, 22, 23, 31, 41.

MEMORY SELECTION—The hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the Lord hath made even both of them.—Proverbs 20:12.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts, selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

"THE earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein" (Ps. 24:1). The man who knows the Lord recognizes that the material and the spiritual world are both God's, and that there is in the final analysis no dividing line between the secular and the sacred.

To keep our thinking straight about the story of Job, we quote an excellent summary by Dr. B. L. Olmstead: "Our lesson today stresses the works of God as seen in nature. The longer lesson of a few chapters (Job 38-41) consists of the whole of the Lord's answer to Job out of a whirlwind after the dialogue with the three friends is completed, and after a youthful bystander, Elihu, had undertaken to give Job an answer (chs. 32-37).

"While Elihu was speaking, a storm came up and Elihu used it to portray the greatness, mystery and unsearchableness of God (ch. 37). Elihu uttered many truths, but he did not rid himself of the error that Job was suffering for his sins. When he had finished, the voice of God was heard out of the storm.

We find in the selected Scriptures of our printed lesson—

I. The God of Creation (vv. 1-7).

JOB'S friend Elihu had made a rather good speech, but he had missed the real point of Job's testings. So the Lord rebukes him as one who darkens counsel "by words without knowledge."

How aptly that expresses much that is going on in our day. Brilliant men, leaders in science, economics and government, talk without the true knowledge which comes from a simple faith in God, are now filling this already confused world with millions of words.

Yes, words, words, words, that really darken the truth about God and his plan for the world. They flow from the radio, the press, the pulpit, from everywhere, and only add to the confusion.

God now brings Job to his feet (v. 3). He is to stand up like a man and answer God. Where was he when God laid the foundations of the world? If he is so wise, perhaps he knows how God suspended the world in space? Perchance he would like to get out his little measuring line and try to put the plans of the Almighty through the little channel of his human brain!

These are questions that the professed leaders of our day need to answer, and they need also to come (if by any chance they could humble themselves) to the place that Job did (40:4): "I will lay my hand upon my mouth."

Job is also reminded that the God of creation is also

II. The God of Life (vv. 16-18).

THE God who put the springs in the bottom of the sea, and who has measured the breadth of the earth, is also the God who controls life and death.

Men have tried down through the ages to search out the secret of life, and at times they have talked as though they had discovered it. Then one discovers that they have just wrapped up their inability to fathom it in some new scientific words, and we still have not taken that matter in our own hands.

That may well be a real blessing, for only the infinite God has the wisdom to determine the limits of man's days, and the manner of his entry into the gates of death. How good it is to leave such matters in his mighty but tender hands!

That leads us to our next point. He is

III. The God of Order (vv. 22, 28, 31, 41).

HE MAKES the millions of snowflakes in thousands of intricate patterns—no two alike, but all in marvelous geometric patterns. Can Job understand that—in fact, can you and I understand how he does it?

Who feeds the birds? Who keeps the stars moving in such order that man can calculate their movements down to the very minute? What about the rain, the hail, the lightning? Look at the animals and their marvelous adaptability to their surroundings.

The man who thinks all these things are the results of chance, or who talks about "the laws of nature," only reveals the utter smallness of his own mind, and his complete lack of comprehension of the Almighty God.

For Your Loaf Life

"Summertime—And The Livin' Is Easy," goes the Gershwin song. Just to prove it, you're saying, "Plant ya now, dig ya later" to your school books. Yes, spring fever has developed into summer delirium, and there are some of the symptoms that are breaking out all over.

Summer Uniform — Off come sweaters and skirts. On go black cotton dirndl skirts frosted with lace, off-shoulder white peasant blouses, ballet slippers laced with colored ribbons and a new summer hair-do that combines bangs with corner braids. Isn't that a portrait of YOU?

Can You Bare It?—Summer is midriff time to any teen. You're wearing midriff tops with shorts or jeans. You're a beauty on the beach in your new midriff bathing suit. You're making midriffs out of your old "T" shirts by cutting them short, hemming up the bottoms and running shoelace drawstrings through them. It's a heat wave!

Tan Your Hide—Isn't that what you're doing this very minute? If you can't find your place in the sun, you tan out those sock lines under the sun lamp. And you've discovered that cake make-up is the smoothest dye stuff for lazy legs.

• • •

Bait Dates—No, we didn't go into reverse by accident. Seems you're having all-day fishing parties ending with a fish fry. With a good line you ought to make a successful catch, and we're not just talking about fish.

Why not face the fact that you're just not his type and enjoy the other boys who love to autograph your date book more often. Even if he were the Daily Boy to the World and You Were the Only Girl, he probably wouldn't be the one for you. NEGRO EXTENSION NEWS

The annual farmers' conference will be held in the form of a field meeting. The date is Tuesday, July 15, 1947, starting at 12:30 P. M. The place is: Agee community, on the farms of Mace Lewis and Eugene Pankey. The object is to observe pasture seed and treatments, a successful hay demonstration on red clover and ladino clover, also sow and litter. Please make every effort to be present and on time.

A very large crowd attended the regular preaching services at the First Baptist Church last Sunday. The pastor preached a very helpful sermon. The offering during the day was very good. The Galilee Sunday School, under the guidance of Mrs. Virginia Watson, is progressing nicely. The enrollment in the primary department has increased, and as the result another class has been added. All members and friends are invited to attend the church and Sunday School.

The Galilee Baptist Church was the scene of its first marriage within the past twenty years at the close of communion services last Sunday when Mrs. Mary Corner became the bride of Reverend C. A. Marshall. The bride, who was given in marriage by Deacon Robert Craig of the Galilee Church, wore a blue chiffon dress with matching accessories. Miss Helen Stephens, maid of honor wore a black crepe dress with matched accessories. The Rev. Mrs. Corner is a faithful member of Galilee Church and a member of the senior choir. The Rev. Marshall is pastor of the Canaan Baptist Church, of near Appomattox. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. Q. Lawing, pastor of Galilee. A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony.

Work is progressing nicely on the lawn of Galilee Church. The front lawn has been graded and the road is under construction. It is the hope of the church to have the work completed by the first Sunday in August.

The public is invited to attend the regular preaching service at the First Baptist Church this Sunday.
